

CHARACTER Q&A:

JULIUS CAESAR

We sat down with the legendary Julius Caesar to chat friends, enemies and leadership. Here are his thoughts...

TELL US YOUR STORY IN ONE SENTENCE

Hello, I'm Julius Caesar, a powerful and ambitious Roman leader who's celebrated for my military accomplishments, but ultimately betrayed and assassinated by my closest allies in Shakespeare's classic play.

WHO IS YOUR BEST FRIEND?

My best friend is Mark Antony, a loyal and devoted ally who stands by me through thick and thin and passionately defends my honour after my death.

WHO IS YOUR WORST ENEMY AND WHY?

My worst enemy is Brutus, a trusted friend who betrays me and joins the conspiracy to assassinate me, believing that my growing power threatens the Roman Republic.

WHAT'S YOUR FAVOURITE FILM?

My favorite film is Gladiator, as it captures the strength, honour, and intrigue of ancient Rome, reflecting the dramatic world in which I lived and ruled. I'm also a big Russell Crowe fan.

HOW WOULD YOU DESCRIBE YOUR PERSONAL STYLE?

I would describe my personal style as regal and commanding, reflecting my status as a powerful and respected leader in ancient Rome.

PINEAPPLE ON PIZZA. YES OR NO?

No, absolutely not! Pineapple on pizza's not for me. I prefer the simplicity and authenticity of traditional Italian cuisine. I can assure you, there were no Hawaiian pizzas in Ancient Rome...

WHAT'S YOUR SECRET SKILL?

I'm just really good at inspiring loyalty and devotion in others, and I've been able to rally my soldiers and citizens to follow me in pursuit of my ambitious goals.

And that's me, Julius Caesar! I hope you enjoyed getting to know a little bit about my life. Remember, power and ambition can be intoxicating, but it's important to remain humble and consider the impact of your actions on those around you!
